End bullying.
 'Communication and trust' part of solution

More than 28 million people have watched her daughter's YouTube video, but for Carol Todd that will never be enough. On Oct. 10 of last year, Amanda Todd took her own life. She was 15.

Thanks to the video about the cyberbullying she'd suffered and how alone she felt, the B.C. girl is famous now.

For her mother Carol, that's just fine. She's now an anti-bullying campaigner, telling Amanda's story to anyone who will listen because she wants to help kids just like her daughter.

Carol Todd is paying a visit to London for a Western University conference on social media and sexual violence, run by the university's Centre for Research on Violence Against Women and Children, on Thursday and Friday.

"My message to families with kids is to open the lines

Internet safety tips

- Sometimes people on the Internet aren't who they say they are. Be careful what you tell them and never arrange to meet up.
- If you're taking a picture with your cellphone, remember that it might have a GPS tag attached. That shows where you are — right down to your address.
- Visit amandatoddlegacy.org for more.

of communication and trust," said Todd. "Parents and adults need to be non-judgmental. Send the message that kids can come to you and tell you anything and that you won't get mad at them."

"When kids need help the most, they need to know who to come to for help without fear of getting into trouble."

Since her daughter's death, Carol Todd is regularly contacted by kids in trouble. They tell harrowing stories. She always asks them the same thing,

"My first question is always, 'Have you told your parents?' They say, 'No.' I ask, 'Why?' They say, 'Because my parents will get mad.'"

So she tells them to find an adult they trust. A school counsellor, a teacher, a relative. Young people should always have someone they can turn to, said Todd.

Amanda Todd felt she had nobody. She said so on one of the flash cards she held up in the video. She'd been bullied online, blackmailed with a topless photo and followed from town to town as her family tried to make a fresh start. Her story ended in tragedy, but there was a lot more to Amanda than what's been reported, said her mother.

"Amanda was a really good kid who cared about people," she said. "She cared about animals and cared about charities and things like that."

She continued: "Since my daughter died, people have asked me why I'm doing what I'm doing and how I can find the strength."

"I said that if Amanda's story can save one person's life, that would be a legacy. It's helped so many other people around the world."

Another great year for Bud Gardens

Boost. General manager says city venue has exceeded expectations

mike.donachie@metronews.ca

Budweiser Gardens is still packing them in, and the dollars are coming, too.

The venue's annual report for 2012-13 is due out "any day now," general manager Brian Ohl said, and he's not getting into the exact details at this point.

But, he said, "it's a successful year."

"We beat our projections for the year," said Ohl, who's also regional vice-president for Global Spectrum, which operates the venue as a partnership with the city. "Not by much, but our projections are always set high. But we exceeded our projections, and we're really happy."

This means more money will be flowing into city coffers, which get a cut of what comes in.

Bud Gardens has recently announced shows by Hedley, Kings of Leon, Gordon Lightfoot and Michael Bublé, and recent months have seen visits by big names like Pearl Jam, Tom Petty, Reba and more. Meanwhile, crowds keep pouring in to see the London Knights and London Lightning.

But why do so many big names want to play in downtown?

"There are a lot of components," Ohl said. "One thing is it's a good venue for

At a glance

- The 2013 figures haven't been released yet, but the most recent ones, for the year before, are impressive reading.
- The venue welcomed 654,207 people to 141 events, and had a total income of $5.8 million. Expenses of $5.6 million left a small surplus.
- Those expenses included a payment to the city of $465,459.

shows to come and play. The design and construction of the building is very flexible for all types of events.

"The second thing is that we have a proven record that people in London will support the venue. If we put on big events, we know we will sell tickets.

"And our company, Global Spectrum, has 118 venues around the world. We have a great relationship in the entertainment business and a great reputation."

Challenges during the last fiscal year, which ended in June, included the NHL lock-out, which meant the pre-season game planned at the venue didn't happen. Plus, a Van Halen concert was lost when part of their tour was cancelled.

The three things that "really made our year," said Ohl, were the success of the World Figure Skating Championship, the London Knights' great season and the Tom Petty concert in June. It was his only Canadian date.

Police continue search for woman

Police are asking people in the Strathroy area to search their properties, including ditches and barns, for a woman who has been missing for a week.

Sylvie Daponte, 49, was last seen about 2 a.m. Nov. 1 at her home in the area of Colbone Street in Strathroy, police say.

No foul play is suspected, but investigators are concerned for her welfare.

Daponte, who is not believed to be carrying identification and has connections to the Watford area, is described as five feet tall and 130 pounds with green eyes and short, curly, brownish-red hair.

She may have been wearing dark-coloured track pants and a grey hooded sweatshirt at the time of her disappearance, police said.

Information can be phoned into Strathroy-Cardoc investigators at 519-245-1250.

Star Trek fan loses the shirt it took him 100 board games to win

MIKE DONACHIE

Open hailing frequencies, because James Chwojka has a message for the person who stole his shirt.

The Star Trek fan is making an appeal after a thief beamed into his car — with help from a jimmy — and grabbed his favourite T-shirt.

Chwojka fully embraces the positive principles that run society in the science fiction show. He doesn't care about possessions or wealth, just like the crew of the Enterprise, but he wouldn't mind getting his shirt back.

"I got the Star Trek Catan board game and my girlfriend and I got really into it," explained Chwojka.

"Because we were new to London we didn't have any friends, we played it a lot. And I mean a lot."

"We had this competition that whoever was the first to win 100 games would get a Star Trek shirt, and I won."

So, after months of game play, his girlfriend Sarah Paquet bought him a shirt showing Star Trek: The Next Generation's Commander Will Riker and two alien girls, with the racy slogan "What happens on the holodeck stays on the holodeck."

"I don't have any sentimental value for things," continued Chwojka. "When I moved to London a year ago, I had my guitar and my clothes and that was it."

"But because my girlfriend bought this shirt for me it's the one thing that has sentimental value."

"But it's ironic to steal a Star Trek shirt because that

Fincore Group's towers rear their heads again

It's back.

The Fincore Group's big plans for two towers in Soho is on the agenda at city hall this week, and city staff are still in favour of it.

The developer wants permission for mixed-use buildings, mainly residential, on the southeast corner of Wellington and South streets and the southwest corner of Waterloo and South streets. In June, council said yes.

But owners of parts of the site, who haven't agreed to sell to Fincore, have appealed to the Ontario Municipal Board, saying their rights are being ignored.

Now the planning and environment committee is to hear what city staff think. They took a fresh look at the plans in preparation for an OMB hearing to come.

And they don't think council should change its view.

"The reasons for this appeal address matters previously discussed in detail in the staff report that was available to council when it made its decision on June 25, 2013," says a report for Tuesday's committee meeting. "The circumstances surrounding the site have not changed in substance."

Fincore plans a 26-storey tower at Wellington and South, with apartments, a health clinic and commercial space, plus an 18-storey tower at Waterloo and South, with a nursing home and senior citizen apartments. There are also 65 townhouses planned along South Street.

Senator speaks. Martin on what the Korean War means to her

In 1953 an armistice split civil-war-torn Korea in two along the 38th parallel.

Soviet-backed communist North Korea pursued a policy of economic independence and isolationism, and its economy and the welfare of its people has progressively worsened under a succession of totalitarian dictators. South Korea meanwhile has improved its lot.

Canadian Senator Yonah Martin came to Canada in 1972.

She says Canada's fight in the Korean war was worth it.

"I would not have been born, I would not be here today. So I owe my life to those who went to Korea and served," Martin told Metro. "The Korea today is unrecognizable as everyone knows from the time of the war where Korea was literally the second poorest country in the world and the Canadian sacrifice has not gone unnoticed."

You've got Seoul: Vet's spirit buoyed by pen pal

Remembrance Day.

Frank Bayne is still haunted by what he saw during the war, but his influence on a young Korean woman's life has helped him find meaning in his suffering

JOE LOFARO
Metro in Ottawa

When Frank Bayne closes his eyes at night, he sees Korea.

He doesn't see the towering skyscrapers of present-day Seoul, or the men and women in suits strolling below, tapping at smartphones bigger than their hands.

What the Guelph, Ont., resident sees are flashbacks of his 14-month service in the final year of Canada's third-bloodiest conflict, the Korean War.

He was manning artillery guns at the peak of Sang Seung observation point, northeast of the South Korean capital in 1953, when, beneath him, in a valley, enemy Chinese soldiers shot his friend Lt. Gerry Meynell in the head and then gunned down another friend, Lt. Doug Banton.

At least 514 other Canadians also lost their lives in the 1950-1953 war.

The lasting effects remain after 60 years for veterans like Bayne.

"My wife says she knows when I'm dreaming because my legs are thrashing around like I'm running," said Bayne.

"In the last year, I had one really, really bad nightmare where she had to wake me up because I was whimpering."

But Bayne, 86, has found a way to deal with his suffering.

He started writing to seven schoolgirls in South Korea about 20 years ago through a partnership created by the Korean Veterans Association of Canada.

One girl named Choi Jeong-Won has kept the pen-pal tradition alive to this day.

As a child, she would write about her life in Korea, her school, and day-to-day goings-on in the life of a typical South Korean teenager.

In her adult life she wrote one time about feeling like she had disgraced her family by failing her bar exam for the first time.

"So I wrote her back and said, 'You know, I failed many times and please keep trying,'" said Bayne.

Bayne met her for the first time last April at a Seoul hotel while he was there for a visit organized by Veterans Affairs Canada.

In January, the federal government declared 2013 the Year of the Korean War Veteran and sent 36 vets to mark the 60th anniversary of the Korean War Armistice.

"When we met at the hotel she said that (letter) inspired her to keep on going," said Bayne proudly.

She is now in her early 30s and is a lawyer for a shipping company in Seoul, Bayne said. They've exchanged more than 45 letters.

"I feel that I've contributed to having the country the way it is today; that has allowed her to do what she's done," said Bayne. "If we hadn't gone there, the whole thing would have been a whole different story."

He has the camaraderie of his fellow veterans, but he said his relationship with Choi puts a human face on the progress South Korea has made in the last 60 years.

On Monday at his home he was preparing to send a new, handwritten letter to Choi. Tucked inside the envelope will be a Canadian Remembrance Day coin as a small token of his thanks.

He recalled her gesture of gratitude when she treated him to dinner after their hotel meeting.

En route to the restaurant in a taxi, the driver got out of the cab, bowed to him and thanked him for his service.

"People in the restaurant, again, they all thanked me for saving the country. It was quite an experience," said Bayne.

Reflecting on his journey back to the bustling metropolis, Bayne said the federal government's declaration of the Year of the Korean War Veteran has helped Canadians remember.

Several people have approached him asking him to speak about the war. This week he was scheduled to speak at a school in Guelph, at the local Royal Canadian Legion, and at a Remembrance Day ceremony.

"In the past, it really was a forgotten war," said Bayne. "And of course it used to make me angry, it used to make quite a few of us angry because people ... always referred to it as the Korean conflict. When somebody would say that I would interrupt and say, 'Well, when I was there, it sure as hell sounded like a war to me.'"

Ford family flock to mayor's aid after release of rage-filled video

'Rude awakening.'

Sister calls Ford a binge drinker but no addict, mother blames pressure

Members of Rob Ford's family sprang publicly to his defence for the first time Thursday amid a growing scandal that threatens to force him out of the mayor's office.

In an interview with CP24, Ford's sister Kathy and mother Diane blamed the pressures of the job, his political opponents and relentless media hounding for his problems.

"The pressure that has been put onto him, since Day 1 since he was elected, it is not fair," his mother said.

His sister denied Ford was a drug addict or alcoholic and insisted he would stay on.

"I know because I'm a former addict," Kathy Ford said.

His sister did concede he tends to binge drink and make a "fool out of himself."

"When Robbie drinks, I think he just goes full tilt."

But Kathy said the problem pales in comparison to his achievements.

"My heart breaks for my son," Diane Ford said. "It really, really does, because he's been attacked."

She called the growing scandal — which includes a video showing Rob Ford apparently smoking crack cocaine and another showing him threatening to kill someone in a profane tirade — unfortunate.

"To err is human but to forgive is divine," Diane Ford said. "Forgiveness isn't in the eyes of the media right now."

His family believes there's no need to send him to rehab, as many of his allies have urged.

The crisis has been a "rude awakening," they said, but both insisted he is strong enough to get through and continue on as mayor.

"All the good that he has done, that's all been overlooked," his mother said. "That's just so hurtful."

Addiction expert weighs in

The latest video — in which Toronto's embattled mayor is clearly impaired and ranting maniacally — should be the final straw before he takes a leave to seek help, says an addictions expert.

- "It would seem that there's more evidence that this poor man is suffering from extraordinarily complex problems," said Ann Dow-sett Johnston, a journalist who has chronicled her own battles with alcohol.

- "I'm watching an entire world laughing at him, and my feeling is one of deep and profound compassion," Johnston said. "Because I feel that his addiction is very public and his need for help is very evident and his situation is dire."

Ongoing conflict

Chief says he didn't know of new video

The chief of police says a new video of Mayor Rob Ford making death threats while "inebriated" is not part of an ongoing investigation into the mayor, his activities and associates.

Chief Bill Blair said he became aware of a cellphone video showing Ford swearing profusely while, in the mayor's words, "inebriated" after it was published Thursday afternoon.

"I'm not going to make any comment on the matter," Blair said Thursday.

The latest video comes after a week of stunning revelations about the mayor, including his admission earlier this week that he smoked crack cocaine about a year ago.

On Tuesday, the mayor's brother Coun. Doug Ford called for Blair to step aside — a shift for the Ford brothers, who have long been adamant supporters of the chief and police.

Doug Ford alleged Blair was on a "witch hunt" and had a conflict-of-interest for going on a private fishing trip with police board member Andrew Pringle.

On Thursday, Blair simply said "No" when asked if he would resign and told reporters the trip was appropriate.

Police were told the mayor would not be attending the chief's annual gala for charity after Ford's office said he had been told not attend. Organizers for the gala said that was not the case and that the mayor was never "uninvited."

Blair also refused to confirm reports Thursday that the mayor was negotiating with police through his lawyer to view a video of him appearing to smoke crack cocaine. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Mullah Fazlullah was unanimously appointed the new leader by the Taliban's leadership council after several days of deliberation, said the council's head, Asmatullah Shaheen Bhitani. Militants fired AK-47 assault rifles and anti-aircraft guns into the air to celebrate.

The previous chief, Hakimullah Mehsud, was killed by the drone in the North Waziristan tribal area near the Afghan border. ## Philippines. 'Catastrophic damage' predicted from year's strongest typhoon

The world's strongest typhoon of the year slammed into the Philippines on Thursday. It had been poised to be the strongest ever recorded at landfall.

"There will be catastrophic damage," said Jeff Masters, meteorology director at the private firm Weather Underground.

The U.S. Navy's Joint Typhoon Warning Center in Hawaii shortly before landfall said Typhoon Haiyan's maximum sustained winds were 314 km/h.

"There aren't too many buildings constructed that can withstand that kind of wind," Masters said.

Thousands of people have evacuated villages in the typhoon's path.

The only tiny bright side is that it's a fast-moving storm, so flooding from heavy rain — which usually causes the most deaths from typhoons in the Philippines — may not be as bad, Masters said.

Loverspy. Developer on FBI's most wanted list

The FBI this week added to its list of most wanted cybercriminals a former San Diego college student who developed an $89 US program called Loverspy or Email PI.

Sold online from his apartment, the program would send the suspected cheater an electronic greeting card that, if opened, would install malicious software that could capture emails and instant messages, even spy on someone using the victim's own webcam.

Carlos Enrique Perez-Melara, 33, has eluded authorities since his July 2005 indictment. His last known whereabouts were in El Salvador, where he was born.

Perez-Melara appears to have made relatively little money on the scheme, unlike others on the FBI list who were accused of bilking millions of dollars from businesses and Internet users worldwide. But Perez-Melara, who was in the United States on a student visa in 2003 when he sold the spyware, allegedly helped turn average computer users into sophisticated hackers who could stalk their victims.

Invitation to fundraiser. Hundreds joined the pile-on, pouring on the sarcasm and mockery

A Liberal fundraiser aimed at capitalizing on leader Justin Trudeau's popularity among women is being denounced as sexist and patronizing by his political foes — and even by some Liberals.

The backlash started instantly late Wednesday when Trudeau tweeted that he was looking forward to "cocktails and candid conversation" at the $250-a-head event in Toronto on Thursday.

Fighting back

"Get a grip, people. It's an e-vite, not a plattform."

Amanda Alvaro, organizer of the fundraiser, in a tweet following the Twitter-storm.

The accompanying electronic invitation to "Justin Unplugged" features stylized close-ups of the leader with a come-hither stare and the message: "Ladies, you're invited to (really) get to know the future prime minister."

Scribbled in grade-school cursive font around the margins are a series of questions: "What's your favourite virtue?" "Who are your real life heroes?" "What is the biggest issue facing women?"

The resulting Twitter-storm was fierce, generating its own hashtag: #askjustin.

"Who organized this? Barbie?" tweeted Lisa Kirbie, a Liberal commentator.

The organizer of the fundraiser, Amanda Alvaro, fought back, tweeting that the event was "organized BY women, FOR women with a (clearly) intriguing e-vite designed to inspire dialogue."

Trudeau himself took to answering questions posed by people under #askjustin.

Twitter has never made a profit but is valued at $31B

News worth tweeting about. Social network hits the New York Stock Exchange and flies much higher than expected Shares of Twitter went on sale to the public for the first time Thursday, instantly leaping more than 70 per cent above their offering price in a dazzling debut that exceeded even Wall Street's lofty hopes.

By the closing bell, the social network that reinvented global communication in 140-character bursts was valued at $31 billion US — nearly as much as Yahoo Inc., an Internet icon from another era, and just below Kraft Foods, the grocery conglomerate

Twitter goes where it's never gone before: the NYSE

Twitter gave users the opportunity to ring NYSE's opening bell instead of executives.

- The users included Sir Patrick Stewart, Capt. Jean-Luc Picard in Star Trek: The Next Generation; Vivienne Harr, a nine-year-old girl who ran a lemonade stand for a year to raise money to end child slavery; and Cheryl Fiandaca of the Boston Police Department.

erate founded more than a century ago.

The stock's sizzling performance seemed to affirm the bright prospects for Internet companies, especially those focused on mobile users. And it could invite more entrepreneurs to consider IPOs, which lost their lustre after Facebook's first appearance on the Nasdaq was marred by glitches.

Twitter, which has never turned a profit in the seven years since it was founded, worked hard to temper expectations ahead of the IPO, but all that was swiftly forgotten when the market opened.

Still, most analysts don't expect the company to be profitable until 2015.

Who gives a Hoot about the interns?

Work in the high-tech sector can be volatile at the best of times. More than 25,000 digital media employees call Vancouver home. It's typical to work on a project, finish it and move on to the next opportunity.

It's feast or famine — especially famine if you're not getting paid.

Social media giant HootSuite, valued at over $1 billion, faced intense public scrutiny in April for hiring unpaid interns for positions that legally required financial compensation.

Vancouver-based HootSuite admitted their guilt.

"We will immediately rectify the issue by offering full payment, including interest incurred, to unpaid interns who had roles within our company," CEO Ryan Holmes said in a statement. MATT KIELTYKA/METRO

Temp is Conflicted Over Co-worker's Firing

Sarah No. 2 got the axe just before lunch: the curse of jeans day. To be practical, a company selling itself to China doesn't need someone to plan its long-term e-commerce solution. Her firing happened quickly, too. One moment she was lecturing about the excessive number of time-expired dairy products in the lunchroom fridge, the next she was standing in the lobby with a cardboard box full of generic desktop crap.

"I suppose you're happy to see me go," she said.

"Not really. I've never had to dumb myself down with you."

She gave me a judge-y looking sigh. "The world's not one big joke, you know, Shannon." She turned around to look at the dumping rain while waiting for her ride — which didn't seem to be coming. Looking out at the parking lot she got philosophical. "You know, I think that in the future we're going to look back on the 40-hour work week with three per cent unemployment as a social failure — everyone was busy, but no one was actually doing anything meaningful. Yes, you were busy all day, but so what?"

The phone rang. "Just a moment, Sarah..." "Good morning, Taylor, Wagner & Kimura Filter Systems, a proud patriotic company since 1899. One moment, I'll connect you." I put down the receiver. "Sorry, you were saying?"

"I was saying that I think a 40-hour work week may well seem as odd and cruel to future citizens as seven-year-olds working in Victorian cotton mills does to us."

I thought about this. "I think you're right. Where's your ride?"

"According to my most recent text, it's stuck in traffic across town."

I quietly phoned Sarah a cab, and when it showed up, I gave her one of my taxi chits: "If it means anything, Sarah, the fridge grosses me out, too. It makes me think of Gwyneth Paltrow in Contagion, especially that scene in the morgue when they slice open her skull."

"Thank you, Shannon. I think that in your own way, you're being quite sweet." She gave me a small smile and hopped in the cab. It made me wonder if I ought to be nicer to the remaining Sarahs.

I looked at my watch... Lunch! Woohoo — freedom! Tattered back issues of InStyle magazine by the coffee maker! Last night's pasta in a Ziploc tub! Guys making lewd jeans day ass comments!

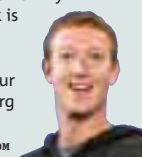

I sent Mr. Xu a quick text about our evening plans, and

NOTHING LIKE WATCHING ICE CLEAR

1 #InADrunkenStupor. In the moment of 2013, Rob Ford admitted, "Yes I have smoked crack cocaine," adding "Am I an addict? No. Have I tried it? Probably in one of my drunken stupors." And then the hashtag #InADrunkenStupor went viral on Twitter. An astonishing day, an astonishing moment in time. A super funny hashtag. A mayor that is cracking under pressure.

2 Lynn Coady. The Edmonton writer took home the 20th annual Giller Prize for her short story collection, Hellgoing, at a star-studded event in Toronto that had Jian Ghomeshi as host and George Stroumbouloupoulos and Paul Haggis among the presenters. To make a long story short, this was only the fourth time in the award's history that a short story collection won the coveted prize.

3 @MadeInCanada. One of the funniest Canadian Twitter accounts is Cause We're Canadian (@MadeInCanada), which has nearly 85,000 followers. It has tweets like "Stop saying sorry!" "Sorry!" #CanadianProblems" and "We all watch the zamboni, just to make sure he doesn't miss a spot. #CanadianProblems". If this were a coffee table book, I would ask for it for Christmas.

with Joel Plaskett and get to watch as it's aired at the start of a Hockey Night in Canada broadcast. The only thing I'm capable of is an extremely bad karaoke version of Bon Jovi's 'Livin' on a Prayer'.

5 Small-town moment in big city. A Berlin street musician was performing the '80s classic Smalltown Boy by Bronski Beat when he was joined in the performance by the song's singer, Jimmy Somerville, who was out walking his dog. Just watch, when I'm singing 'Livin' On A Prayer' some day at a karaoke bar, Bon Jovi will walk in and join me.

6 Five-year-old's Make-A-Wish. Miles, a little boy fighting leukemia, is a HUGE Batman fan. He will get to play his fave superhero

Nov. 15 when thousands of volunteers through the Make-A-Wish Foundation help transform San Francisco into Gotham City for the boy. Miles will be Batman for a day, and do things like capturing the Puzzler in the act of robbing a downtown vault. Awesome.

7 YouTube Music Awards. The inaugural awards show had a decidedly raw feeling to it — in keeping with so many YouTube videos. The live webcast was directed by Spike Jonze, and the hosts Jason Schwartzman and Reggie Watts worked without a script and Lady Gaga performed wearing just a black cap, sunglasses and a plaid shirt. Yes, mainstream indie is in.

8 Katy Perry. She showed her tremendous Twitter power this week when she overtook Justin Bieber to take over the No. 1 position of Twitter followers, with nearly 47 million followers. (Lady Gaga is No. 3, Taylor Swift No. 4 and President Obama No. 5.) I am closing in quickly with 890 followers.

9 Dwight Howard. Some wondered whether the star NBA player would ever return to his old "Superman" form in his Orlando Magic days. After a dreadful year with the LA Lakers last year, his back has healed and his Houston Rockets are expected to make a title run — they are off to a 4-1 start. Yes, the Kryptonite is gone, and redemption is sweet.

10 The story of Twitter. A new book, Hatching Twitter, by New York Times reporter Nick Bilton brings to light the power struggle between the four founders as they built the startup that has now become one of the biggest social networks in the world — and just went public this week. If you don't want to buy it, no worries: I will tweet the entire book out word for word.

11 Miley Cyrus. She launched a redesigned website this week and the only way to describe it is butt ugly. Actually there are more ways to describe it: It's like a nine-year-old designed it. It's like a GeoCities page circa 1995. It's like Hannah Montana on an acid trip decided to be a web designer. Go to MileyCyrus.com and see what I mean.

Or don't.

Vawn (the temp behind TEMP) Himmelsbach. One of the oddest assignments I've had as a temp is, well, posing for a photo along with my coffee mug.

While my mug accurately describes my personality, ironically, I have very little to say about it.

Matt (the desk defender) Kindred. My mug is from my apartment. It was given to me by my wife. I bring it to every temp position because I think it brings me good luck. The handle is large and therefore perfect for my grip, it does not heat up when coffee is poured into it.

Also, I love cartoons so anything with a drawing on it is great.

Mila (the travelling temp) Petkovic. The mug is a favourite of mine because it's bright, happy and silly. It reminds me to be light-hearted and just laugh at life when the going gets tough. What's the point of complaining or getting stressed? Life is just so much more enjoyable when you can find the humour in it. Wow, I've never thought so deeply about a mug before!

Synopsis

Each year on Nov. 11 we remember and celebrate "the men and women who have served, and continue to serve our country during times of war, conflict and peace." Remembrance Day is a time to pay respect to the sacrifices brave soldiers have made for our country. In observation The Reel Guys have compiled a list of movies to serve as a backdrop on this solemn day.

List of Remembrance Day gems, lest we forget

Enter the shoes of a soldier. The best movies to commemorate those lost in the horror of war from Saving Private Ryan to Passchendaele

Richard: Mark, the first war-themed film to really make an impression on me was The Best Years Of Our Lives. When I was a kid I watched it on television every November and although it's almost 70 years old the story of servicemen struggling to rebuild their lives after the Second World War is still timely and relevant. Perhaps it feels so authentic because the crew were all Second World War veterans and the main character, who faces discrimination after losing both hands in combat, was played by real-life disabled vet Harold Russell.

Mark: Don't know the movie, Richard. I grew up in a family of cowards and war movies were forbidden. And I don't know who said it — probably not Snooki — that "all great war movies are anti-war movies." That being said, I like the P.O.W. genre, with incarcerated soldiers plotting to get out. The Bridge On the River Kwai is one of the greatest, with a fine performance by Alec Guinness, but let's also include The Great Escape with Steve McQueen, and a left-field choice, Merry Christmas, Mr. Lawrence starring David Bowie. Waaaaay left-field, Richard, if you get my drift.

RC: War films come in all shapes and sizes. If P.O.W. movies are your thing check out The Hill, a little known British film that features one of Sean Connery's best performances. Set during the Second World War in North Africa, it's the story of a stockade run by Brits to punish deserters. Connery wedged it in between Goldfinger and Thunderball and it is a stark contrast to the work he was doing in the Bond films at the time. As for your second thought, which I suspect should be attributed to Steven Spielberg and not Snooki, two films pop to mind. Saving Private Ryan and the First World War drama All Quiet on the Western Front. Both are masterfully made films that show the brutal reality of war from the point of view of the soldiers.

MB: I've seen The Hill. It's great. But the best anti-war movie might be Johnny Got His Gun, a minimalist squirmer told from the point of view of a blind, mute quadruple amputee. Fun times! And as far as soldiers on the ground, I would nominate Black Hawk Down, or Platoon, both of which put you right in the centre of a battle you may not be winning.

RC: We can't talk about war films so close to Remembrance Day without paying tribute to Canadian soldiers on screen. Paul Gross's Passchendaele is probably our best-known homegrown look at Canadians in battle but Hollywood has never shied away from depicting fighting Canadians. Canuck heroes are portrayed in the Devil's Brigade, The Battle of Britain and Attack on the Iron Coast among many others.

MB: Yes, Canadians excel in battle. Canadians also excel at harbouring war resisters, but I've yet to see THAT movie.

Action/Adventure

Thor: The Dark World

Director. Alan Taylor

Stars. Chris Hemsworth, Natalie Portman

It's hammer time as Marvel superhunk Thor (Chris Hemsworth) battles the vengeful Dark Elves for possession of an ancient WMD with the power to destroy his home planet Asgard, Earth and all realms between. Also at stake are the lives of father Odin (Anthony Hopkins), astrophysicist sweetheart Jane Foster (Natalie Portman) and trickster brother Loki (Tom Hiddleston). Although convoluted, the movie nimbly juggles the story and the action.

Documentary

Watermark

Directors. Jennifer Baichwal, Edward Burtynsky

In what may possibly be considered a sequel to her award-winning 2006 doc Manufactured Landscapes, Jennifer Baichwal (now teaming up with that film's shutterbug subject Edward Burtynsky) creates a stunningly beautiful study of water and human-kind's dependence (or neglect) of it. For almost every majestic, carefully framed shot, there lies a horror beneath, but the filmmakers succeed by avoiding didacticism and instead skillfully shower the viewer with a cascade of contemplation.

White-washed Hollywood

Racial issues.

African-American actors and filmmakers have had a landmark year, but they remain under-represented on the big screen

Oprah Winfrey has heard this story before.

A wave of high-profile films about black people receives accolades. A heart-warming trend of greater on-screen equality is declared. Hollywood basks in its multiculturalism — and then returns to business as usual.

From the slavery odyssey 12 Years a Slave to the day-in-a-life drama Fruitvale Station, this fall has been a banner season for films of racial struggle told without white protagonists and largely by black directors. As one of the stars of the Civil Rights history Lee Daniels' The Butler, Winfrey is a proud player in a rare moment for African-Americans at the movies. But she and many others have been tired of celebrating occasional aberrations of what should be Hollywood's regular output.

"We've been through this before," says Winfrey. "I don't want it to be, 'Oh, gee, we had the 10 films and now it's another five years before you see another one."

2013 is a historical high-point for black-themed films, a culmination of Obama-era cinema. But the filmmakers and actors who made this confluence happen are resolutely against being resigned to a mere trend story, soon to be followed by another lull in diversity.

Spike Lee, whose near-annual turnout has been a steady line through the undulations of the industry, disdains black filmmakers being treated like "flavours of the

By the numbers

Last week, a USC Annenberg study supplied a reminder of Hollywood realities. The school analyzed the 500 top-grossing films at the U.S. box office in recent years. Last year, African-Americans represented 10.8 per cent of all speaking characters. (Hispanics at 4.2 per cent and Asians at 5 per cent fared even worse). Between 2007 and 2012, the 565 directors of the top 500 films included only 33 black filmmakers, and just two of them were black women.

"Every 10 years, we have the same conversation: 'Oh, there's lots of black films being made,'" says Lee, who will release his revenge remake

Oldboy later this month. "Then it drops off. It's not consistent."

Opening Nov. 29 is Man-dela: Long Walk to Freedom, a sweeping biopic of the South African leader starring Idris Elba. It joins a group of films that began with the Jackie Robinson drama 42 and runs through to the Langston Hughes adaptation Black Nativity, out Nov. 27.

If 12 Years a Slave, starring the British actor Chiwetel Ejiofor as Northrup, goes on to win the best picture Oscar (a prediction of many — though certainly not all — Academy Awards onlookers), it would be the first best picture winner directed by a black filmmaker. The best actor category, too, is full of black contenders, including Ejiofor, Whitaker, Elba and Jordan. The Oscars (which Chris Rock once called a "million white man march") have increasingly served as celebratory breakthroughs in Hollywood's racial ceiling. For 2001, two black actors won the top acting prizes for the first time: Denzel Washington (Training Day) and Halle Berry (Monster's Ball). Dual wins for Morgan Freeman (Million Dollar Baby) and Jamie Foxx (Ray) followed for 2004, as did the combination of Whitaker (The Last King of Scotland) and Jennifer Hudson (Dreamgirls) for 2006.

How I Live Now. Actor George MacKay talks about the high stakes of love and war

Young British actor George MacKay isn't taking anything for granted in his career, with a number of films due out and more on the way. Chief among them is How I Live Now. Kevin Macdonald's adaptation about young lovers (MacKay and Saoirse Ronan) struggling to survive in a war-torn modern-day England.

This film is something of a surprise, with its mix of elements and styles. I think that's down to Kevin, really. The source material, too. Meg Rosoff, who wrote the novel, is very no-nonsense. It's funny meeting her because she writes such a moving book but at the same time she's very matter-of-fact and no bulls—. And that was carried on to the script and Kevin's filmmaking. It's very honest. And love is a serious matter. It's something that can be romanticized and heightened as it is, but stakes are high in a very serious way when we're in love, and it means the world to you, it is your world. So I think it's perfectly legitimate to look at it very seriously and have the stakes that high.

And you've got some intense geopolitical elements thrown in as well.

Yeah, this sort of faceless enemy that is sort of everyone today. Because the characters in the story are so blissfully unaware and in their own bubble, it's only when they're physically torn apart that it becomes a real, real reality. So we didn't feel the need to be specific about who's actually invading. I don't think they went home and watched the news at the end of the day and kept tabs on everything. I think they were just completely involved with each other.

Even before her character

meets yours, Saoirse is pretty oblivious to world events.

It's that thing today. It's bad that it happens so often that you get numb to it. I think that's more of a comment on people now, just people in general, like all the terrible stuff that's going on in Syria. It's daily that things are happening, and you see it, but until that is your own mother blown to bits or something, you kind of get numb to it, which is terrible in a way.

Besides this, you have several other films coming out soon. How are you enjoying this part of your career?

It's lovely. I just love working. I think it's a novelty you can never take for granted because you never know when your next job is coming in, so you can only concentrate on what you're doing at the time and make the best of it and put everything you can into it. Until you're a kind of A-lister or something, I don't think you can really plot your next move. You just have to take the opportunity when it comes.

'I haven't got the guts to ask Adele for a duet'

New music. Celine Dion talks about who she admires in the industry, who she doesn't think much of and her latest musical effort

RICHARD PECKETT
Metro World News

Up until recently, the Twittersphere would have you believe that Celine Dion is dead. She isn't. Rather ironically, the 45-year-old's album is titled Loved Me Back to Life (out now). Dion, whose career has spanned 30 years, is moving on lyrically and melodically. Here, in a roundtable interview in London's The Dorchester hotel, Dion chats about her love for Adele and her latest record.

It's your first English language record in six years. Why did you now seem the right time to put an album out?

I haven't stopped, to be honest with you. I started a new show in Las Vegas almost three years ago, then I did a French album and also had two babies. Do the math: time goes fast too.

Celine Dion is alive and well — and she's not going anywhere. GETTY IMAGES

Were you trying to reinvent yourself with this album?

You can't reinvent yourself every five years. For 30 years I have been using the same recipe. This time round, we're trying to freshen up and modernize — it's a second wind. I'm not trying to reinvent myself but at the same time I'm not going to go on with singing My Heart Will Go On, Because You Loved Me and The Power of Love.

There are elements of Adele in this album. Is she an influence?

She has an influence on my life. Period. I love her. I'm taking hot tea everyday and I'm hoping she's going to pop up and have tea with me.

Will you collaborate with her?

I haven't got the guts to ask for a duet. I just would love to meet with her. If I see her, I would be star-struck and tell her that I'm her number one fan. Every soundtrack that I do, I find ways to sing her songs through my warm-up but I wouldn't be so tacky as to ask her to sing with me.

Cher mentioned recently on a talk show that the crowds in Vegas during her residency were "very, very old, often sedated and didn't seem into the music." Now that your residency is almost over, can you say how you honestly felt about it?

She is very, very old, so the crowd is going to be old. (Gets up and walks away in mock shock). I've seen Cher perform and she is amazing. Hmm, the theatre itself is formal when you come in. It's not like you can rouse the crowd with Do You Believe In Life After Love; it's all gentle claps and hums. You really have to understand that it brings that mood.

What's your experience?

Musically it gives me the possibility to enjoy my music. I can sing 70 shows a year, whereas I was doing 200 or at best 160 per year and I couldn't breathe (pants like a dog) and then I go home every night. As an artist it gives me an opportunity to do my work and be happy about it.

Talib Kweli. Looking to cut the middle man out of the music industry

Talib Kweli is releasing a new album — sans label. GETTY IMAGES

On his classic 2007 track, Hot Thing, rapper Talib Kweli rhymes, "I'm sending this one out to you and you and you." When dealing with a guy who has been called the deepest thinker in the rap game, you know he doesn't use language lightly, and Kweli is making good on that claim and literally sending his next album out to you.

"This is the first album I'm dropping directly to my fans," Kweli says. "No label. No nothing. This is a first. The technology hasn't been around to do this before."

In an effort to directly connect with his fan base, Kweli is making his latest project, Gravitas, available in an exclusive pre-sale on the website KweliClub.com. It marks the rapper's sixth solo album and it features the likes of OhNo, Q-Tip, Lord Quest and Rich Kidd. Kweli says his goal is to eliminate the middleman, as in the greedy music executives wanting their cut.

"I'm not an artist presented on a huge national level," he says, humbly. "I'd rather just email my core fans and put it out there than spend millions on a direct marketing campaign and hope you buy it. I don't have to convince you if you're already a fan."

Gravitas is due to be released on Dec. 15. Kweli, who promises to personally interact with fans via email and social media, says it stays true to his classic vibe, meaning it won't feature any lyrics involving Maybachs or boots with the fur.

"I make music for myself," he says. "It wouldn't come out if I didn't feel good about it." MICHAEL GREGER/METRO

David Bowie, Rob Zombie and Puddles the Sad-Faced Clown demand that you watch them carefully

Love Is Lost/ David Bowie

Bowie created this video to make up for his non-appearance at the Mercury Music Prize ceremony. Using materials and gear lying around his New York City office, the cost of making this video was $12.99 (for a USB drive to deliver the video).

Puddles really is a clown. He's also seven feet tall. There's a flood of Royals tributes/parodies showing up on YouTube these days.

Arcade Fire. Success being Reflektor'd in sales

By the numbers

140,000

In Canada, Arcade Fire's 75-minute effort sold 49,344 albums. It claimed the No. 1 spot. The album sold 140,000 copies in the U.S.

Montreal's Arcade Fire has another hit in Reflektor, mirroring the success of their breakthrough third album.

The sprawling double-album — the band's fourth — has debuted atop the chart in both Canada and the U.S., according to numbers from Nielsen SoundScan.

In Canada, the ambitious 75-minute song cycle sold 49,344 albums to claim the No. 1 spot, while the album sold 140,000 copies in the U.S.

That's slightly shy of the 156,000 units the band's third album The Suburbs moved Stateside when it topped charts upon its 2010 release, according to Billboard.

That record went on to gold certification in the U.S. while going double-platinum in Canada and securing Grammy and Juno awards for album of the year.

Still, Reflektor usurped Katy Perry's Prism as the top album in both countries.

The Biebs leaves Brazil with 'a little souvenir'

Justin Bieber's new penchant for graffiti may have gotten him into trouble with police in Brazil, as an investigation has been launched looking into Bieber's recent tagging on a wall of the former Hotel Nacional in Rio, according to TMZ.

Bieber's team reportedly received permission from Rio's city hall to spray-paint a different wall but opted for the Hotel Nacional because they felt the first choice was in a neighbourhood that was too dangerous. "He believed it to be a degraded area and decided to do it," a police spokesman says. "Now he is leaving Brazil with a little souvenir." The goal of the investigation is to determine if Bieber's actions constitute vandalism, a misdemeanor. Bieber is described in the reports as "young, blond, famous and a rebel."

Ashton and Mila just can't wait to reproduce

Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore are reportedly about to file paperwork to formally end their marriage, and apparently it can't happen soon enough for Kutcher, who is desperate to start a family with girlfriend Mila Kunis, according to Radar Online.

"Ashton has made no secret of the fact that he wants to have a baby and he's told his family that they're not taking any 'precautions' against having a baby," a source says. "They don't really care if marriage comes before baby. In fact, they don't think they have to be married to have a child."

Hell hath no fury like a Gwyneth scorned

Gwyneth Paltrow is taking a stand. She wants all those concerned about freedom and justice to join with her in protesting Vanity Fair's cruelty to Gwyneth Paltrow.

Rumour has it that she is frantic over an upcoming Vanity Fair profile of her that contains some less-than-flattering revelations. She's already tried to get her famous friends to stop talking to the publication; now she wants them to refuse to party with VF too.

"Gwyneth feels her relationship with the magazine has been destroyed and she's urging pals not just to avoid doing business with the magazine, but to skip the mag's Oscar party as well," a source told Radar.

Vanity Fair's Oscar party is one of the swankiest, most prestigious parties in Hollywood. Even I, a humble blogger currently wearing teddy bear pajamas, know that.

So I'd say Gwyneth is about to find out who her friends really are. Will Beyoncé think it's worth missing the biggest bash of the year to keep the 10 per cent discount on her GOOP subscription? One thing's for sure: I can't wait for this Vanity Fair profile. There must be something really good in there. Maybe she's secretly Saddam Hussein or something.

Robin Roberts shines on

Good Morning America host Robin Roberts, in a sexy black jumpsuit and open-toed heels, looked the picture of health and then some at the CMA Awards in Nashville on Wednesday. Roberts was diagnosed with myelodysplastic syndrome in 2012 and underwent a bone marrow transplant last October.

Katy Perry

It's 'inevitable' Katy and John will get married (unless they break up again)

Apparently when it comes to Katy Perry and John Mayer hearing wedding bells, it's less a question of if than a question of when. "It's inevitable," a source tells E! News about the chance of Mayer proposing now that things have gotten "very serious" in their relationship. "Everyone wants them to get engaged. They are so perfect together," the source says.

Cachaça for everyone

While Canadian security

agents may be tapped into what's going on in Brazil, I'm betting most of you have never investigated cachaça (ka-SHA-sa) — the country's best known alcoholic beverage.

With all the wine pouring out of Chile and Argentina, I guess it's easy to understand how an in-your-face, sugar-cane-based spirit could take a back seat when South American booze comes to mind.

That said, cachaça is the third most consumed spirit in the world.

Often referred to as Brazilian rum, cachaça isn't made from molasses (like most rum). It's produced from raw sugarcane juice that's been fermented and then distilled.

A fiery tippie, delicate Canadian palates will appreciate it best when served hidden underneath some mix like in Brazil's national cocktail, the caipirinha. Made with a combination of cachaça, lime juice and sugar, it's a refreshing, mint-less take on the mojito.

Selection varies across the country, with Leblon Cachaça

($29.95 to $32.99) available in most markets. White rum lovers will find a familiar sugary sweetness fighting its way through the up-front aggression, while tequila fans will appreciate its vegetal nuances. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. # The Brazilian food revolution

Chef Alex Atala with his new release, D.O.M. Rediscovering Brazilian Ingredients. FERNANDO CARNEIRO/METRO

Alex Atala. Rebel chef ventures into the jungle for ingredients and takes on food authorities

Metro

With Brazil hosting the two largest sporting events in the next three years — the World Cup and Olympics — you'll want to know the chef revolutionizing Brazilian cuisine.

Alex Atala is applying classical French techniques learned in Europe to local ingredients — some that have long been ignored by Brazilians.

Atala is an adventurous chef who goes into the Amazon jungle to source his ingredients. He's a rebel, serving ingredients banned in Brazil. And he's really good. D.O.M. is considered the sixth-best restaurant in the world by Restaurant magazine. Its list is an annual snapshot of the opinions and experiences of more than 900 international restaurant-industry experts.

Recently, the tattooed former amateur boxer was in Toronto to promote his first significant cookbook.

As a colonial country, Brazilians learned to value foreign ingredients at the expense of their own. Atala is rediscovering those ingredients.

"As more and more Brazilians travel abroad and see countries like France value their gastronomy, they come home curious about Brazilian food," Atala said. "There's a movement happening."

To him, manioc — known in Canada as cassava — is the most Brazilian of all ingredients. "To the people in the Amazon, it's as important as soy is to Asian cultures."

He also serves honey produced by Brazilian bees, which contains more humidity and therefore expires faster than that produced by bees imported from Europe. It's banned in Brazil because it can't be stored for long. Atala is fighting to have it and other local ingredients legalized.

Also revolutionary for Brazil, Atala started a non-profit think-tank — ATA (institutoata.org.br/en) — to promote fair-trade practices in the Amazon region and help farmers earn a living selling local produce.

If you do go to Brazil for the World Cup next year, Atala suggests that the best souvenir is flavour. Enjoy.

Recipe

Mushroom With Smoked Parsnips

Ingredients

- 1 kg coarse salt
- 300 g parsnip, washed
- 150 g fresh button mushrooms

For presentation

- extra virgin olive oil, for coating the parsnips and for presentation
- smoked salt
- salt and pepper
- 4 black garlic cloves
- parsley, chopped

Preparation

1. Preheat the oven to 200 C.
2. Dampen the coarse salt. Place half the salt on the bottom of a roasting pan. Place the parsnips on top of the salt in a single layer. Cover the parsnips with the rest of the coarse salt
3. Bake for an hour. Remove from the oven and transfer the parsnips to a rack to cool.

When cool, peel skin off the parsnips and cut them into 4 pieces lengthwise. Set aside. 4. In a large frying pan or skillet toast the button mushrooms directly over flame until golden brown. Set aside and keep warm

Finish and presentation

1. Place the parsnips in a clean roasting pan and coat lightly with olive oil
2. Return the parsnips to the oven for about 3 minutes to warm through.
3. Remove from oven and season with the smoked salt. Season the mushrooms with salt and pepper, and place a mound of them in the centre of a dish.
4. Cut the cloves of black garlic in half. Arrange 2 pieces of parsnip and 2 halves of black garlic beside the mushrooms
5. Finish with drizzle of olive oil and sprinkling of parsley.

Shaken with a twist: Bar gear gets swanky

Entertaining. Materials such as shagreen, faux tortoise and hammered silver are adding flair to drinking accessories does not have to mean having a glitzy full bar. Bar carts have become more delicate, refined, and smaller in scale, so you can tuck them into a corner of a room or blend them in with the rest of the furniture," says Veranda magazine's market editor Catherine Lee Davis.

West Elm's Parker slim-profile cart in acorn-stained walnut veneer with brass rail trim has a mid-century vibe. The walnut-stained Dodson cart features a flip-down front concealing a mirror-lined interior with plenty of storage. And a cart in polished nickel with two foxed mirror shelves evokes Art Deco glamour. Visit westelm.com.

Home beer and spirit-making have become popular hobbies. Bars and beverage stores feature a growing range of artisanal spirits and craft brews. Cocktail parties are back in vogue.

And retailers are responding to all this imbibing by offering furniture, barware and accessories with cosmopolitan flair. All you need are a few invitations, snacks and some good music for the party to begin. Let's pop the cork on what's new:

"Nowadays, entertaining figured to look like a hutch or buffet. Check out potterybarn.com.

Davis says that with barware, the trend is toward shaking it up. "We see lots of different materials like hammered silver, tortoise or shagreen," she says. "It's all about mixing and matching. After all, entertaining should be about having fun."

Gent Supply Co. (gentsupplyco.com) has a natty collection of coasters, glassware and flasks printed with illustrations of turn-of-the-century gentlemen duellers, narwhals, anchors and animals dressed in distinguished garb.

Artist Richard E. Bishop (richardebishop.com), known for wildlife etchings in the 1930s, '40s and '50s, has his work on an array of bar glasses and decanters. Ducks, trout, foxes and horses set a country house tone.

A punch bowl that rests in the clutches of an octopus, and a sculpted shell held by a delicate coral stand are part of an aluminum barware collection at Z Gallerie. There's also a faux crocodile service tray in rich eggplant, studded with silver rivets, that makes a sophisticated statement.

Silver cocktail picks and stir sticks topped with airplanes evoke the Second World War. And a mirrored sign with phrases like Stirred and Straight Up printed in a gold retro font would make great wall art. Check out zgallerie.com.

Canada Basketball

Tabs being kept on Lightning guard

Canada Basketball has a message for London Lightning shooting guard Garrett Williamson.

"Let him know we will be watching him this year and hopefully he will have a great year and will continue to have the type of performances we have seen early in this season," Canada Basketball's executive vice-president Rowan Barrett said Thursday.

Barrett said he was not aware of the Lightning rookie until contacted by Metro this week. Now, he likes what he sees.

Williamson played in Germany last year. The Lightning brought him to Canada where they found out his mother is from the Toronto area. That means he's eligible to play for Canada in any international competition.

Barrett said Williamson should just continue doing what he is doing.

"You would expect him to be one of the dominant players at his position in that league to say the very least," he said. "If he can be a player that can play at the highest level in the world, you'd expect him to dominate where he is."

Williamson's coach, Micheal Ray Richardson, said this week that the Canadian men's team — and perhaps the NBA — should take a look at the 25-year-old.

Barrett said it's good to have Richardson on side.

"Obviously, (Richardson) was a phenomenal pro and it is awesome to see him back in the game and working to grow basketball and obviously it's in Canada so that's even better."

DAVE LANGFORD
dave.langford@metronews.ca

Perhaps the Canadian Hockey League voters were a little hasty in dropping the London Knights from the Top 10 rankings.

Two weeks ago, the Knights, after starting the season in the top spot, were banished to also-ran status.

And then last Sunday afternoon, the Knights ended the Erie Otters' 11-game winning streak with a 6-2 home win.

On Thursday, it was

On Thursday

Guelph's turn.

With defenceman Dakota Mermis going end to end and scoring three minutes into overtime, the Knights stopped the CHL's second-ranked Storm with a 6-5 win, ending Guelph's 10-game win streak before 8,730 fans at Budweiser Gardens.

The Knights now have a chance to sweep their four-game homestand Friday night when they meet the Barrie Colts at 7:30 p.m.

The Knights, with the win, made their record 2-2 with the Storm this season after having lost 7-4 in Guelph on Oct. 27, the last London defeat.

Kyle Platzer, Brent Welychka, Matt Marner and Ryan Rupert all scored in the first period for the Knights as they took a 4-1 lead and chased Guelph starting goalie Justin Nichols. Justin Auger scored the only Guelph goal.

The period featured two brutal fights with lots of punches thrown — and landed. Paxton Leroux of the Knights fought Chadd Bauman in the main event at 13:39 and Josh Anderson of the Knights and Ben Harpur less than a minute later.

But in the second, the Storm, well, stormed back, and scored three unanswered goals to tie the game with backup goalie Matthew Mancina stopping all 10 London shots. Brock McGinn, Jason Dickinson and Brady Milne scored the goals.

Zack Mitchell gave the Storm their first lead in the game 25 seconds into the final period, ending the Stolarz term of duty for the night. Jake Patterson, for the second consecutive game against the Storm, took over. He also assisted on the winning goal in overtime.

Leroux tied the score at 5 with a goal two minutes later. And then it was on to overtime.

Finch sets eyes on Hec Crighton Trophy

Undefeated. The Mustangs quarterback led the team to their first 8-0 season since 1998

Western Mustangs quarterback Will Finch rewrote the OUA record book in his sophomore season and has been named the conference's 2013 most valuable player.

Finch is now in contention for the CIS Hec Crighton Trophy.

Along with Finch, Mustangs linebacker Pawel Kruba took home the President's Trophy as the OUA stand-up defensive player of the year, while head coach Greg Marshall was named coach of the year. Defensive co-ordinator Paul Gleason earned volunteer coach-of-the-year honours.

Finch established himself as one of the top quarterbacks in CIS football, helping the Western Mustangs to their first 8-0 season since 1998, and setting an OUA team scoring record in the process with 458 points.

The Burlington native had one of the greatest statistical seasons in history, setting new OUA milestones for passing yards with 3,047, and completion percentage, hitting 69.7 per cent of his passes. He tossed 21 touchdowns on the year and added five more on the ground.

Kruba, a Windsor native, is the heart of the Mustangs defence, helping the team finish in the Top 10 in both points allowed per game (18.5) and rushing yards allowed per game (109.9).

Marshall, in his seventh season with the team, has now received four nods as OUA coach of the year. He received the award in 2010 while with Western and in 1999 and 2000 while at the helm of the McMaster Marauders.

He also captured the CIS coach-of-the-year award back in 2000, and was named the CFL coach of the year in 2004 with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats. METRO

Reimer can bear to wait for his revenge

NHL. Leafs goalie knows he can't erase last season's playoff meltdown on Saturday if he gets start in Boston

If Maple Leafs goalie James Reimer gets the start Saturday night in Boston, he won't attach a "get even" script to the game.

That story won't get told unless the Leafs face the Bruins in the playoffs. That's the same scenario where the Toronto club suffered a historical collapse (Game 7 of the first round last season), so anything less simply doesn't hold the same significance.

What's important right now for the Leafs and Reimer is restoring an accountable, consistent level of play that has eluded the club in recent weeks despite a tremendous 10-5 start.

There's likely to be some question marks and changes over the next two days as Toronto plays back-to-back games against New Jersey and Boston.

Reimer was in goal for that collapse last spring, and coach Randy Carlyle also has Mark Fraser returning to the defence after a 13-game injury absence, and it appears rookie Morgan Rielly will shift to the press box as a healthy scratch to make room.

Against the drama, though, Carlyle delivered a very serious message to everyone on the team — shape up or sit down.

"We've told our players the message will be delivered in a different manner ... and it's not just wins, we need more compete level, we need more doggedness around the puck, it all has to go up," Carlyle said at practice Thursday.

The practice was an intense affair, with newly signed Jerred

Clarkson's quiet offence

"I'm trying to figure out what part it is that I do to fit in."

David Clarkson, who faces his former team Friday night when the Leafs host the New Jersey Devils. The forward, who signed a $36.75-million US, seven-year deal with the Leafs in the off-season, has one assist in the five games he's played since returning from a 10-game suspension.

Smithson taking over the pivot role on the fourth line as the Leafs weather the loss of top centres Tyler Bozak and Dave Bolland.

There was no looking past the Devils Friday night, but there's no denying the significance of that game in Boston Saturday night.

Reimer's view — if he gets the start — certainly holds the same anticipation of any athlete wanting to face their demons from a previous loss. This time, though, the circumstance of the meeting — in regular season — weighs less than a playoff meeting.

"Sure, any goalie would like to start every game," Reimer said. "And I'm not saying this game (vs. the Bruins) doesn't mean anything, it's just that in the playoffs, that's the time for retribution."

Federer cruises to win over Gasquet at ATP finals

Roger Federer made light work of Richard Gasquet to clinch his first win at the ATP World Tour Finals, defeating the Frenchman 6-4, 6-3 on Thursday to boost his chances of making the semifinals for an 11th time.

Gasquet hit only 11 winners and looked inhibited throughout. Federer, who has won a record six year-end championships, was not having a great day either — he had 30 unforced errors — but prevailed on important points as Gasquet converted only one of his six break chances. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Should you find a lower advertised price within thirty (30) days before or after the purchase of qualifying tires from a participating Honda dealer, present the Honda dealer where you purchased or intend to purchase qualifying tires with proof of the advertised price and they will match the lower price. Offer does not apply to quotes or advertised prices from outside Canada, online auction sites, wholesalers, online retailers that have no physical stores in Canada, closeout/liquidation/clearance sales, advertising errors or misprints or restricted offers. Subject to stock availability. Qualifying tires must be purchased and installed at a participating Honda dealer in Canada. Advertised item must: (i) be an in-stock brand, excluding Bridgestone, be of the same brand, size, model, sidewall, speed and load rating; (ii) be sold through an authorized retailer located in Canada; and (iii) be in Canadian dollars. Lowest Price Guarantee does not apply to costs associated with labour, valve stems, mounting/balancing, disposal fees and taxes. Some restrictions apply. Offer subject to change or cancellation without notice. Ask your Honda dealer for details.

NBA. No. 1 overall pick Bennett sinks first basket in fifth career game

It certainly hasn't been the start he envisioned.

At least Cleveland Cavaliers forward Anthony Bennett can now breathe a slight sigh of relief after sinking his first basket in the NBA.

Playing in his fifth game, the No. 1 overall pick in the 2013 draft from Brampton, Ont., connected on a three-pointer with 9:46 left in the first half of Wednesday night's 109-104 loss to the Bucks in Milwaukee.

Bennett started the season 0-for-15 from the field in his first four games. He went 1-for-5 on Wednesday night.

Mike Tyson. Ex-heavyweight champ bares soul in autobiography

Mike Tyson's life story is the gift that keeps giving.

And giving. And giving. At one time he was the baddest man on the planet, a heavyweight champion who terrorized anyone who got in his way, inside the ring or out. More recently he's unburdened himself as perhaps the most tortured soul on earth, with a one-man show on Broadway that Spike Lee has turned into an HBO special airing Nov. 16.

It turns out that Tyson didn't tell us everything. Not to worry, because he's taken care of that in a hefty autobiography that might be the most soul-baring book of its genre ever written.

The title is Undisputed Truth, and the truth is that Mike Tyson is one messed up dude. He's desperate to put his demons to rest, but the book

Quoted

"I have a lot of pain and I just want to heal."

Mike Tyson says he's back in Alcoholics Anonymous after drinking in August.

needed an extra epilogue written just before printing to talk about him falling off the sobriety wagon once again.

And though things might be better these days in Tyson's world, he constantly warns that he's not far from slipping off the edge, or slipping back into a strip club to party with drugs and women.

"Sometimes I just fantasize about blowing somebody's brains out so I can go to prison for the rest of my life," he writes. "Working on this book makes me think that my whole life has been a joke."

If so, Tyson has yet to figure out the punchline. Though he has reinvented himself in recent years as a family man and vegan with enough comedic chops to act in movies, he says he lives daily with the dark past of a junkie who loved to snort cocaine and drink and was constantly preoccupied with finding women to bed.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Success comes to those who dare, so dare to be different and don't give two hoots what other people might say. The only thing that matters is what you say (and do).

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Don't waste time and energy completing a task that should have been over and done with by now. Your life is about to move in a radically new direction. In a matter of days, you will be working on something different.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Set targets but don't set time limits. Keep your plans general over the next few days and let everything happen at its own natural pace, even if at times that pace seems dead slow.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Keep your ideas simple today if you want to be taken seriously. Sometimes your thoughts get complicated and you spend more time trying to make sense of them than actually getting things done. Time to change.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You may be generous but you are nobody's fool and anyone who thinks you will be taken in by a sob story today will soon realize they have made a mistake.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Why waste time fussing when you can be having fun with your friends? You may have serious things to think about but you will think about them better if you are enjoying life.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You seem to be on duty all the time and you really must call a halt. Take a break if you need it today and over the weekend. In fact, take a break if you don't need it — just to make the point that no one owns you.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You have worked hard for what you've got and will have to work hard to keep it. Is someone going to take it away from you? No! But don't be careless and give it away.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

An opportunity will arrive out of the blue tomorrow or over the weekend and you must not hesitate to make use of it. The planets warn if you don't move immediately it won't be with you long, so get it together.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

No one is perfect, so don't beat yourself up for mistakes you have made. The fact that you got something wrong is evidence that you tried something different, which is more than most people do.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Are you pleased by what you have achieved or annoyed by what you have failed at? The way you answer says a lot about your state of mind. Be positive: Yesterday's failures lead to tomorrow's successes.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Strive to see the good in everyone today, even people who you can't stand the sight of. They have simple human failings, like you. SALLY BROMPTON
